Preamble

The German National Cohort is the largest long-term population study currently being conducted in Germany. Over a period of more than 20 or 30 years, it intends to collect medical data for epidemiological research into common diseases - their causes, prevention, early diagnosis and treatment - and provide it to scientists. NAKO began recruiting people with a main residence in Germany who were randomly drawn from the population registries at the start of 2014. By September 2019, more than 205,000 people aged between 19 and 75 had been received at the 18 NAKO study centers for the first examination and included in the cohort as participants after signing the consent form. In the study centers, surveys (interview and self-completed) and examinations were carried out over a period of approximately three to six hours. Furthermore, biosamples were taken and stored long term. Further information about NAKO, e. g. the target diseases, can be found at nako.de/en and especially the study design and program in [1], [2], and [3].

The first written follow-up survey (GEFU-1) was successfully conducted from 2017 to 2023 with over 171k participants. The second survey was successfully conducted in the period from October 2018 to August 2024 with over 138k participants in the study centers. In addition, two special COVID-19 surveys were successfully conducted with up to 161k participants during the pandemic. The data collected directly from participants was supplemented by secondary and registry data as well as mortality data. Non-personal data, e. g. environmental data or statistical socio-economic data, were assigned to the participants via their place of residence. In an MRI sub-study, whole-body MRIs lasting one hour were performed on almost 31k (first assessment) and over 19k (second assessment) participants. In addition to the data derived from these medical data, this is essentially the dataset that scientists can now obtain from NAKO free of charge on request. A fee may be charged for the finite aliquots of biosamples.

The terms to use and access NAKO data is codified in particular in the use and access policy, which every scientist (who wishes to work with NAKO data) must undertake to comply with. The NAKO Transfer Unit in Greifswald and Heidelberg and its website TransferHub (transfer.nako.de) is the contact point for all scientists interested in the NAKO data. The data directory in TransferHub shows which data can be requested. The desired data elements can be selected, the application with the described research question can be submitted, and the compiled data can be downloaded from TransferHub after review, approval and conclusion of the contract with the scientific institution.

We define metadata as all data that describe the units and items of the NAKO data (e. g. identifiers, designations, descriptions, units of measurement, data types, scale levels, select options). This metadata is compiled together with some counts of units and items in this Data Handbook. The Data Handbook is intended solely to provide information about the NAKO data that can be requested outside TransferHub. Data must always be requested directly in TransferHub by selecting the specific data elements, and only data from completed surveys can be requested. It should also be noted that the number of participants is permanently reduced due to withdrawals of consent by participants and the removal of their data from the NAKO databases (small two-digit number per year).

Subordinate	Correction weights, p. 36

2.2.1 Correction weights

Type	Examination (unit)
Superordinate	Correction weights, p. 35 (Project)
Name	Correction weights
Title	Correction weights (survey weights)
Description	Design weights (wgt_design_) and total weights (wgt_total_; product of design weight and calibration weight) are provided for the NAKO data set. As a rule, the total weights (wgt_total_) should be used. The design weights (wgt_design_) should only be used in justified cases with appropriate expertise. While design weights only take into account the sampling procedure or the selection probability of survey units, the total weights also include the non-response probability of survey units and the distribution of certain characteristics within the population. The weighting was not based on the population distribution of Germany as a whole, but on the population distribution in the study regions actually covered by the NAKO study centres. The weights are provided in two standardisations (_18sc, _16sc): Normalisation to 18 study centres (_18sc) and a normalisation combining the three Berlin study centres (_16sc). The respective allocation to the study centres is coded in the variables wgt_geoSC_18sc and wgt_geoSC_16sc. Separate correction weights are provided for each survey wave (baseline, second study, third study), which can only be used for the data of the respective wave. The design weighting was based on the number and composition of the population (gender, age group) according to the official population update of the Federal Statistical Office (year: 2014-2019, regional level: municipality). The calibration weighting was carried out using a raking procedure (Iterative Proportional Fitting) based on microcensus data (year: 2019, regional level: district) for the characteristics: - age group (' 60'), - gender (female vs. male), - nationality (German vs. non-German), - migration status (yes vs. no), - education (ISCED low vs. middle vs. high), - household size (1 vs. 2 vs. 3 or more persons). 3.3.1.1.2 Contraceptives and hormone replacement products

Birth control pills, hormonal contraceptives, topical contraceptives, hormone replacement products. Based on the data available, it is assumed that the majority of women are not aware of the difference between the contraceptive pill and the mini-pill. The duration of use of the contraceptive pill is therefore NOT included in the calculation of the total duration of use of contraceptives. Similarly, information indicating parallel use of the contraceptive pill and the mini-pill is not considered implausible, unlike the parallel use of other hormonal contraceptives. First-time use of hormone replacement products at an age 70 years was assessed as implausible.

3.10.1.1 Age at initial diagnosis

The data is based on self-reported data. Data less than 30 years old should be considered potentially erroneous and excluded from analyses if necessary. The data is obviously subject to a strong memory BIAS. Age-dependent analyses should therefore never be carried out with the exact age data for each year, but only with suitable age groups (at least 5 years, better 10 years for knee osteoarthritis).

3.15.1.2 Employment status and occupation

Angaben zum Erwerbsstatus enstprechend des "Labour-Force-Konzepts" der International Labour Organisation (ILO). Erwerbspersonen sind Personen, die aktiv am Erwerbsleben teilnehmen oder teilnehmen wollen. Dies sind folglich zum einen Erwerbstätige wie Arbeitnehmer, Selbstständige, mithelfende Familienangehörige und auch Menschen in einer beruflichen Ausbildung. Erwerbstätige sind ebenfalls Menschen in geringen oder unregelmäßigen Beschäftigungsformen (Minijobs, 450-Euro-Jobs, Ein-Euro-Jobs). Zu den Erwerbstätigen zählen auch Personen, die ungeachtet der tatsächlich geleisteten Arbeitszeit eine Bindung zu einem Arbeitgeber haben (Personen in Mutterschutz, Elternzeit und in sonstiger Beurlaubung). Zu den Erwerbspersonen zählen zweitens Erwerbslose, das heißt Personen, die nicht erwerbstätig sind, aber für die Aufnahme einer Erwerbstätigkeit zur Verfügung stehen und aktiv nach einer Arbeit suchen (Bezieher von ALG I und ALG II). Nichterwerbspersonen hingegen nehmen nicht aktiv am Erwerbsleben teil, weil sie bereits aus dem Erwerbsleben ausgeschieden sind (Rentner) oder sich noch in Ausbildung befinden (Schüler, Studenten) oder anderweitig dem Arbeitsmarkt nicht zur Verfügung stehen (Bundesfreiwilligendienst, freiwilliges soziales Jahr). Beim Umfang der Erwerbstätigkeit wird zwischen Teilzeit- (=35 h/Woche) unterschieden. Referenzen: Statistisches Bundesamt. (2018). Statistisches Jahrbuch. Deutschland und Internationales. Description	ISEI is used as a measure of the socio-economic status of an occupation and is based on data on the relationship between education, occupation and income. The data basis of the ISEI-08 (International Socio-economic Index of Occupational Status) is the International Social Survey Programme (ISSP). The variable can take on values between 10 and 89. Description	The Standard International Occupational Prestige Scale SIOPS is based on surveys in which people rated job titles in terms of their social prestige. The results were transferred into an internationally comparable, standardised prestige scale for occupations, which is regularly updated (Christoph et al. 2020). The scale ranges from 12 (e.g. shoe shiners) to 78 (physicians). The SIOPS prestige scale was constructed using the iscogen-Commands of Stata (Jann 2019).

In subsection 1	Employment status and occupation
Title	European Socio-economic Classification
Description	In contrast to ISEI-08 and SIOPS, ESeC (European Socio-economic Classification) is not a continuous status measure, but a categorical, non-hierarchical class scheme (Harrison and Rose 2006). ESeC was developed specifically for the European region. Technically, ESeC classes can be constructed using ISCO-08 occupation codes (3-digit) supplemented by information on occupational status (employer, self-employed or employee), the size of the organisation and whether or not the person is a supervisor. Calculation of a_esec is currently only available for the baseline data.

3.15.1.3 Education

A preliminary derivation according to the International Standard Classification of Education (ISCED) 97 (UNESCO 1997) has been used to depict socio-economic status.

The ISCED describes qualitative differences in school and vocational education, summarises school and vocational educational qualifications, is oriented towards educational certificates and ensures the possibility of international comparability (Lampert & Kroll 2009). The derivations are to be regarded as provisional, as the additional plain text data on school and vocational qualifications has not yet been fully analysed.

3.15.1.4 Income

The income available to a person or household is used as an important indicator alongside education and occupation to measure social inequality. With the help of need weights, savings made by larger households compared to smaller ones as a result of joint economic activity are taken into account. The need weight is calculated according to the "new OECD scale": The first adult is assigned a weight of 1. For each additional adult living in the household, the value 0.5 is added and for each child under 14 living in the household, the value 0.3 is added. References: Lampert, T., & Kroll, L. E. (2006). Measuring socioeconomic status in socio-epidemiological studies. In Health inequities. Foundations, problems, concepts (pp. 309-334).

4.2.1 Derived variables Everyday activities

Type	Examination (unit)
Superordinate	Everyday activities, p. 721 (Project)
Name	Derived variables Everyday activities
Title	Derived variables everday activities
Description	Derivation of 6 new variables partly by converting the 8 IADL variables into binary variables (cf. McGauran, Berger and Robra, 2002): 4 variables for the need for help (three from binary variables), 2 for the quantification of response variability. The derived variables were not calculated for participants under 60 years of age who incorrectly completed the questionnaire. Extract from the df100k report on possible effects associated with the optimisation of the touchscreen in Q3 2015: The jump in the relative proportion of missings (respondents who did not answer any of the questions) between Q3 2015 and Q1 2016 by more than 15 percentage points from 9.5% to 25.1% is striking. This general pattern is consistent across all age and gender groups and is most pronounced among the oldest and female respondents. However, the sharp increase is region-specific and can only be observed in certain study centres. Similar to the increase in missings, the need for help rose sharply between Q3/2015 and Q1/2016 (from 39% to 45%), although no consistent pattern is discernible within the individual study centres. The relative frequency of response category 1 (“Not at all difficult“) for each of the 8 items drops sharply by around 10 percentage points between Q3/2015 and Q1/2016. There is no distinct temporal pattern in the response categories 2-4, nor is there a seasonal pattern in the response frequencies.

Title	-

Description	Alltagsaktivitäten (U1/2), Version vom 10.2.2014. Abgeleitete Variablen sind in t_abg_iadl. Auszug aus dem df100k-Bericht zu möglicherweise mit der Optimierung des Touchscreens im 3. Quartal 2015 zusammenhängenden Effekten: Auffällig ist der sprunghafte Anstieg des relativen Anteils der Missings (der Probanden, die auf keine der Fragen geantwortet haben) zwischen dem 3. Quartal 2015 und dem 1. Quartal 2016 um mehr als 15 Prozentpunkte von 9,5% auf 25,1%. Dieses generelle Muster ist konsistent über alle Alters- und Geschlechtsklassen und ist bei den ältesten und weiblichen Probanden am stärksten ausgeprägt. Der sprunghafte Anstieg ist jedoch regionsspezifisch und lediglich in bestimmten Studienzentren zu beobachten. Vergleichbar mit dem Anstieg der Missings steigt der Hilfebedarf zwischen Q3/2015 und Q1/2016 sprunghaft an (von 39% auf 45%), wobei jedoch innerhalb der einzelnen Studienzentren kein konsistentes Muster erkennbar ist. Die relative Häufigkeit der Antwortkategorie 1 („Überhaupt nicht schwierig“) für jedes der 8 Items sinkt sprunghaft zwischen dem 3. Quartal 2015 und dem 1. Quartal 2016 um ca. 10 Prozentpunkte. Es gibt kein ausgeprägtes zeitliches Muster in den Antwortkategorien 2-4, sowie keine saisonalen Muster in den Antworthäufigkeiten. Baseline-Daten geprüft im QS-Bericht NAKO-368 (DF100k). Die Daten der Zweituntersuchung sind nicht qualitätsgesichert.

Name	Professional recognition
Title	Derived variables Professional recognition
Description	Derived variables Professional recognition, derived from the touchscreen module Professional recognition (ERI) baseline in accordance with DF100k report NAKO-434 Professional recognition from 13 July 2020. The ER ratio (ratio of the sum scores of stresses and rewards, multiplied by a correction factor that compensates for the unequal number of items) and the respective tercile of the ER ratio were calculated. As three items of the rewards scale were only collected from October 2015 due to a questionnaire error, the individual scales for stress and rewards were not calculated here. These can be determined from the raw data (ts_eri module) if required. The use of the correction factor leads to plausible values for the ERI ratio without systematic distortion, despite the failures for the three items. The position measures (mean and dispersion) of the subscales for Effort and Reward as well as the derived ERI ratio are comparable to the Socio-Economic Panel and the Swedish SLOSH study, which indicates a high validity of the ERI measurement in the NAKO. The ER ratio increases with age and is always higher for women than for men, which is due to lower professional pay and recognition. For study participants over retirement age, ERI fell as expected, as partial retirement is generally associated with a lower workload. The ER ratio correlates with the self-assessment of general health (d_qol2).

Name	Berufliche Anerkennung (U1)
Title	-
Description	Berufliche Anerkennung (U1), Version vom 13.02.2015. Das Modul Berufliche Anerkennung ist Teil des Level-2-Touchscreen-Interviews. Es besteht aus zwei Filterfragen sowie 10 Items, die das Ausmaß psychischer Arbeitsbelastung anhand des Effort-Reward-Imbalance-Modells (ERI-Modell) messen. Das Modell besteht in seiner extrinsischen Komponente aus den beiden Skalen Verausgabung (effort) und Belohnung (reward). Mit ihm wird postuliert, dass zusätzlich zu den Einzelskalen deren Kombination in Form eines Ungleichgewichts zu Ungunsten der Belohnungen ein erhöhtes Erkrankungsrisiko eintritt (Siegrist, 1996). In der NAKO wurde die Kurzversion mit 10 Items verwendet. Auf der Seite der Verausgabung messen drei Fragen das Ausmaß von Zeitdruck und Arbeitslast (ERI1/ERI2/ERI3). Auf der Seite der Belohnung werden anhand von 7 Fragen die Konstrukte Anerkennung (esteem, ERI4/ERI8), Arbeitsplatzsicherheit (job security, ERI6/ERI7) und Aufstiegschancen (job promotion, ERI5/ERI9/ERI10) gemessen, wobei bei den ITEMS ERI5-7 die Skalenrichtung umgekehrt ist (Siegrist, Li, Montano, 2014). Qualitätssicherung der Baseline-Daten im Rahmen NAKO-434. Es gibt eine geringe Anzahl Diskrepanzen zwischen den Antworten zur Berufstätigkeit hier (d_eri1) und den Antworten zur detaillierter gestellten Frage zur Erwerbstätigkeit im Interview (d_se_b3), die sich möglicherweise durch den größeren Interpretationsspielraum der Touchscreen-Frage erklären lassen. Abgeleitete Variablen befinden sich in abg_eri.

Title	-
Description	Drogen (U1), Version vom 8.5.2014. Das Modul wurde in der Baseline von etwa 85% aller Teilnehmenden ausgefüllt. Der erste Fragenkomplex bezieht sich auf die jemalige Einnahme von 10 verschiedenen Substanzklassen. Die Möglichkeit „möchte nicht antworten" wurde relativ häufig benutzt, möglicherweise aufgrund einer erhöhten Sensibilität der Probanden, da es sich zumeist um illegale Drogen handelt. Eventuell waren manche Substanzen den Teilnehmenden auch unbekannt. Der Anteil „möchte nicht antworten" war noch höher im Fragenkomplex nach der Lebenszeit-Häufigkeit des Konsums einzelner Substanzen (nur nach Bejahung der ersten Frage), allerdings mag auch die fehlende Erinnerung der jeweils genauen Häufigkeit eine Rolle gespielt haben. Es gab keine unplausiblen Angaben. Bei den „anderen Opiaten", die häufiger zu medizinischen Zwecken benutzt werden, zeigte sich im Gegensatz zu den anderen Substanzklassen eine Zunahme des Konsums mit dem Alter. Dagegen wurden Cannabis, Kokain und die synthetischen Drogen überwiegend von den jüngeren und mittleren Altersgruppen konsumiert, am häufigsten in Berlin-Mitte, Berlin-Süd, Hamburg, Mannheim und Freiburg. Teilnehmende in Halle und Neubrandenburg gaben am seltensten einen Drogenkonsum an. Männer nahmen etwa doppelt so häufig wie Frauen jemals die verschiedenen Substanzen, mit Ausnahme der „anderen Opiate". Die Qualität der Daten ist insgesamt als sehr gut zu bezeichnen. Aus Gründen der sozialen Erwünschtheit ist von einem gewissen underreporting auszugehen. Außerdem ist die Stichprobe hinsichtlich der sozialen Schicht eingeschränkt repräsentativ. Baseline-Daten geprüft im QS-Bericht NAKO-510 (DF200k).

4.19.1 derived variables - physical activity

Type	Examination (unit)
Superordinate	Touchscreen survey: Physical activity, p. 1015 (Project)
Name	derived variables - physical activity
Title	-

Description	Prepared derived variables and validation of the results of the TS Physical Activity module according to the QA reports NAKO-127 (DF100K), NAKO-417 (DF200k) and NAKO-941 (2U). The Global Physical Activity Questionnaire (GPAQ) is prepared in accordance with the WHO analysis guide (https://www.who.int/ncds/surveillance/steps/resources/GPAQ_Analysis_Guide.pdf). For the activity areas surveyed, there are 5 subdomains: intensive and moderate physical activity at work, physical activity when travelling and intensive and moderate physical activity during leisure time. - The naming of the variables is based on the GPAQ analysis guide. However, in order to distinguish the variables on time per week from the variables on MET minutes per week, the syllable met was added to the variable name for the latter. The quality assurance of the GPAQ data indicates overreporting of physical activity. This should be taken into account when analysing and interpreting the GPAQ data. If necessary, the GPAQ data can be calibrated using accelerometry data.

4.21.1.1 Validated self-declaration on health insurance status

As part of the quality assurance of the baseline survey, the self-reported health insurance status of the study participants from the touchscreen survey was checked for plausibility using the voluntary information on health insurance (insurance type and name) recorded by the independent trustee office (THS) as part of the consent process and corrected if necessary. Self-reported information on health insurance status was only collected from April 2017 onwards and is therefore only available from around 91,000 participants. The THS collected information on health insurance from 188,974 participants (approx. 92%). The proportion of missing values of 8% is due to participants who were not asked for consent to the collection and scientific use of secondary data from their health insurance or who did not give this consent. Information on health insurance status is available from both sources for 85,644 participants. Verified information was transferred to a new variable on health insurance status (a_kv_1). The degree of validation was also specified in the variable a_kv_1_sure. Self-reported information that matched the information recorded via the THS or was corrected using the reference information was labelled as "certain". All information that could not be verified with certainty (e.g. answer to the insurance backlog: "I don't know" or information changed after the QA) was rated as "not certain".
